Much Speculation Regarding Presence of English Warships
City of Mykico, Dec. 21. The extended stay in the harbor of Acapaleo of the English cruisers Royal Arthor, Champion, Satellite and Nymph Is a matter of much speculation as to plans of England, with its warships in this part of the Pacific. The most generally accepted belief is that these cruisers have some designs in connection with the present dispute over the boundary between Mexico and Guatemala, and which is now under diplomatic negotiations. Should war by any chance occur between the two powers, it is thought England would hardly do more than project British interests wherever there was danger of damage to the property of Englash entrem, but the uncommunicative policy being followed by the commanders of the boats is giving rise to many rumors and speculation as to the hand England would take in the affair should hostilities ensue. The cruisers have been lying at anchor in this habour for a month and there is no indication of an early departure.

Dear Comrades and Friends

I thank you for your kind invitation to give you an account of the dedication of the monounent erected the past year in tensory of the 604 men of the 1st Maine Heavy Artillery, who fell charging the enemy's works at Petersburg Va., June 18, 1861.

I only wish some other one had been pressure from the existed.

receiving no orders to retreat they kept on to death.

We advanced the 16th, 17th and 18th of June, pressing the enemy into their lust and strongest defensive line laid out by Gen. Beauregard—this line was repeatedly charged by the 2d, 5th and 9th Corps without success.

About the middle of the afternoon of the 18th we moved up the Princo George Court House Road, which road, meeting the Hase House, turns square to the right nutil is uncovers the New Market Race Course, when it rurns to the left and runs directly into Pefersburg.

It was in this short piece of road sanken below the fields that the 1st Maine, anablering $33 men in three battailous, having a front of about 140 men, formed to lust the Jersey Brigade.

We were a forlora hope, for this was the last effort made to break their lines before beginning a siege. Gen. Mott, our Division General, knowing the uschesness of the attempt, 'delayed the order until Gen. Bimey, the Corps Commander, gave orders for its immediate execution.

As we were supposed to move rapidly,

As we were supposed to move rapidly, As we were supposed to move rapidly, we left our inapaseds in the road and with guns at right shoulder shift at the word "Forward," we climbed the bank and entered the perfectly clear field. It was slightly rising ground and 1,100 feet to the enemy's works, which poured forth murderous missites of all kinds into our ranks.

our beloved Col. Chaplin returned to the Sunken Road and tried to raily the balance of the brigade to our support, the cultien float and tried to raily the balance of the brigade to our support, but to no purpose.

Our galiant regiment moved on gradually closing to the left as the mendopped, but in ten office or wounded and the remainder sought sufety as best they could on that field of carquge: thus sadly and disastrously to us ended the day. Strange as it may seem this was the anniversary of Napoleon's great defeat, the "Battle of Waterloo."

It was our intention to dedicate the monument was in position, but too late to arrange for a defeation from this long distance, therefore, it was postponed until Sept. 14. Owing to the hard times and our State election occurring at that time, we did not have as many of the regiment and flends present as we hoped.

Merry Christmas from one end of the land to the other these words will form the joyful greeting that will usher in this day. Occasionally one hears the wish expressed that the usual observance of the day might cense to be the universal custom, but this is the exception that proves the $158,000 more for their hay than they rule. To mankind in general it has an base been getting At the other end of the continent Min-icenshed in a greater or less degree the the court of love as exemptified in the territion of the 1 the day of all others sine mest humanizing of the year. It appeals to the better side of our natures and except of the territion of the argue as some as the American protective duty was removed. Commenting upon the above the Boston fournal says We wonder how many Boston merchants have had a similar H luminating experience. Not a few of There can be no more fantastic delusion than that a lower turiff accessarily means lower prices for the purchasers of foreign goods It did not mean that in our last disastrous experiment with tariff for revenue only in 1846 As soon as the foreign manufacturers had stifled American competition they advanced their price to the old rate or beyond it, and the poor American consumer had to pay the fiddler until his money was all gone and he was bank

The plale truth is that the foreigners regard the protective duties as a tribute which they are compelled to pay to the American Government for the benefit of their American rivals. When these duties are kindly remitted by their strong siding allies and champions they prompt ly proceed to put the difference into eir own pockets. That the foreigner often pays a whole or part of the duty is a maxim which our "tarlif reformers have vehemently denied, but the foreigners themselves have repeatedly acknowledged it. When the McKlulcy Tariff increased the duty on the plate, the hon, Steel and Coal Times, of London, signiffcantly remarked that it had seriously affected the Welsh tin plate trade, "cappcially by lowering the prices to an unre-munerative level." That is, the Welsh monopolists themselves had been compelled to pay the increased tax in order to retain a footbold in the American mat-

The chamber was brought to a high pitch of excitement by this larangue. The socialists cheered approvingly. The ministers interrupted the speaker frequently with protests.

As Jaures reached the climax of his charges, M. Barthou, minister of public works, sprang to his feet and shouted "You lid, you know you lie." Jaures reply was drowned in the tumult, which was stilled after five minutes by the president's bell. There were many calls for the censuring of Jaures, and eventually DeBrisson, the president, requested him to retract his accusations. Jaures refused flatly.

AMUSEMENTS At The Norombega

The Lillan Tucker company opened a The Norombega last evening with the "Lawyer Detective ' to an appreciative and good sized audience. The company s even better than when last here, and the performance was smoothly and evenplouant as "Bridget" and "Polly ' and Mr. Vaught in the title role of Peter Grump the "Lawyer Detective" was comical The specialties were well received. The same play will be reneated to night, also at the Christmas matiner this afternoon, and those who did not go last night will doubtless go to-night, or

Castine is making ready for an unusually large amount of summer business next season. Already every 100m in the and private boarding houses have been enlarged and the new accommodations are generally bespoken. In the bullding line there have been more changes in the old town in the past twelve than during any twenty years before. Four or five handsome cuttages are to be erected in readiness for another scason. The most elegant of these new structures will be Commodore Fuller's cottage, located on various parts of the peninsula. The latest invention in water wheels has been produced by a Presque Isle man. It is a wheel which will give enormou power, and which needs ao dam or other device for controlling the water. It can be fixed in a frame dropped into any water that is rapid enough to compel the canoelst to change his paddle for a pole when going upstream, and the result will be great power or rapidly revolving puleys, whichever is desired. The wheel As each paddle reaches a point where the pressure of the current no longer affects It, it folds back, and the active paddles n the other side of the wheel bring it around, so that the current again brings t into use. This will be a great thing for operators of portable sawmills when
